LIONS

FELINE FAMILIES

Most cats live by themselves, but lions live in family groups called prides. In the pride, the dad lion has the responsibility of keeping everyone safe from intruding lions and other predators. The adult females (grandmothers, moms, and aunts) have the responsibility to keep everyone fed. Female lions are able to hide better in the long grass to sneak up on their food because they do not have the big mane of hair around their neck. For baby lions, called cubs, their job is to play. Through play, they practice their hunting, stalking, and other skills they will need when they become adults.

Can you find and identify the roles for all three lions?
