We're bringing the

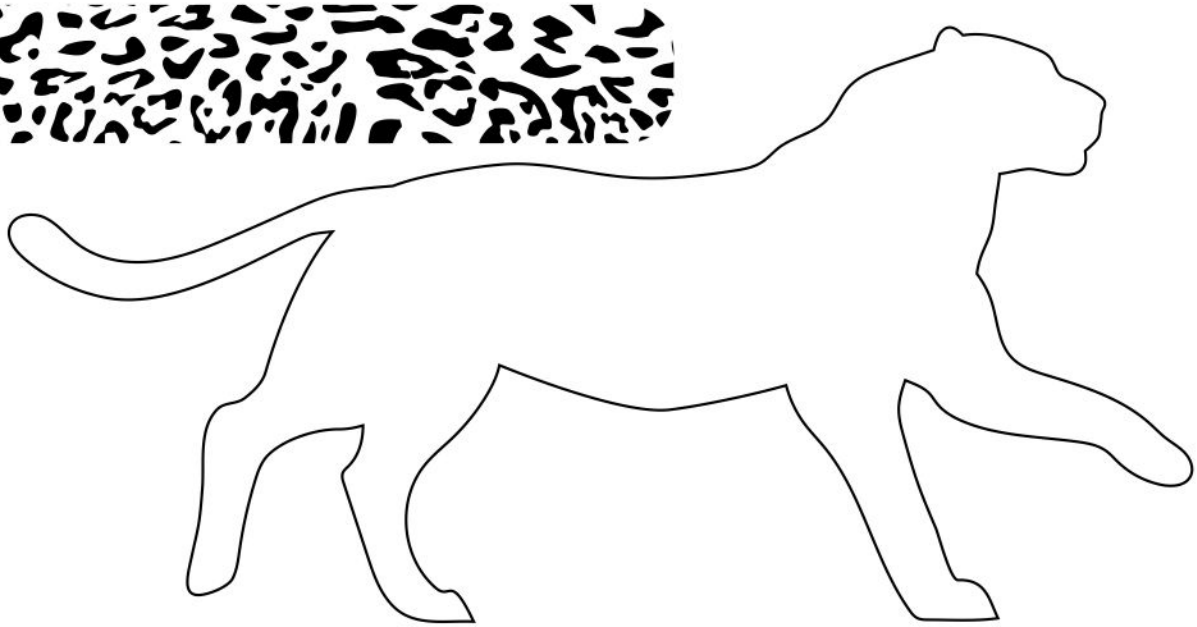
ZOO TO YOU!

JAGUAR

NAME THAT SPOT

Jaguars, leopards, and cheetahs all use spots to help them camouflage, but can you spot the difference between the spots? Cheetahs have solitary spots, while leopards and jaguars have spots grouped into rosettes. The rosettes of jaguars have extra spots in the middle. Scientists can even use the patterns of jaguar rosettes to identify different jaguars in the wild because each spot pattern is different.

Give the jaguar spots like these!



REID PARK ZOO